Gratitude

What is God's will for my life? That is an important question! In some respects, it depends on what we mean by the question—are we talking about God's will for my marriage, for my education, for my career, for my spiritual life, etc.?

While the answers to those questions will vary from person to person, Paul does tell us one thing in 1 Thessalonians 5:18 that God wills for each of our lives:

"Give thanks in all circumstances; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus for you." (1 Thess 5:18)

Sometimes we make things more complicated than we have to make them. God is often more concerned with how we are living life than what we are doing—what job we have, what city we live in, and so forth. So much of Christian living revolves around the simple act of faith-filled gratitude and thankfulness! This point was made well by Christopher de Vinck:

"Gratitude is the exclamation point after the narration of our lives. Whether we are grateful for big things (life, liberty, love) or grateful for the small things (the flight of the heron, chocolate, the scent of the sea), we are the only creatures on earth who can articulate a sense of appreciation with words ... of thanks.

According to a joint study between the World Health Organization and UNICEF, one in nine people in the world don't have access to safe and clean drinking water. I shower every morning, and I wash my car and sprinkle my lawn with water that I can drink.

According to the U.N.'s Food and Agriculture Organization, one in nine people in the world go to bed hungry. I often can't decide if I want an orange, a banana, a pear, an apple, or other fruit nestled in the bowl at the center of the kitchen table.

Elie Wiesel, the man who lost his family but not his faith during the Holocaust, wrote: "When a person doesn't have gratitude, something is missing in his or her humanity."

This is the will of God for you and for me: that we might live lives characterized by gratitude!

FUSION NEWS

What Are You Thankful For?

How has this year been for you? With everything that has gone on, we have had to adapt and react to so many new situations. Your home life, your school life, and your church life have all gone through changes. We are coming around the corner to Thanksgiving, which may feel very different this year. We reflect on this crazy year and think about the things that we are most thankful for.

What does your list of thankfulness look like? It's probably easy to get side-tracked on things that may frustrate you or have been a pain to deal with, but stay focused. What are some deeper lessons that God has taught you this year? What are some valleys that God has brought you through? Think back on joyous times and count them. Maybe you are thankful for the time that you have been able to spend with your family. Maybe you're grateful that school ended early or that for a few weeks you got to attend school in your pajamas online. Whatever it is that you are thankful for, take some time this morning to think about those things and write them down. Pray over them and thank God for guiding you to this point in life.
