Life, Love, and Loss Workshop

Dean Miller

Who should attend such a workshop? Widows and widowers, right? Of course, but who else? How about married people? If a person chooses to marry, they are at risk of becoming widowed. No married person lives forever in this world. When a married person dies, someone is left behind. Then there are those who will be getting married. If they follow through with marriage plans, they automatically expose themselves to the possibility of becoming a widow. If we see the value to preparing before marriage, don't you think that we should understand the value of preparing for widowhood? Then there are those who desire to exercise "pure and undefiled religion" (James 1:27) by striving to be effective servants of those who have lost their martial mates.

Besides widowhood, though, many have suffered or will suffer loss from divorce, death, financial or some other. Studying widowhood helps us with many other kinds of losses.

The Workshop is designed to promote thought and discussion about the most difficult life circumstances a person can face. The goal is to emphasize the divine perspective of these experiences.

Is there life after loss? Is there anything we can do to help people we know who are living with the challenge of widowhood?

Who should attend? People who are living. People who love anything or anyone. The reason? Because we will all suffer loss.

Maybe a better question is, "Who should not attend a Life, Love, and Loss Workshop?"

Staying in Touch with YOUTH

Some Advice

My advice for the day: "Don't ever pick up a hot skillet by the handle with your bare hand! Did I say ouch?!!" Yes, I'm very much aware that when a metal object has just come out of the oven that it's hot and that grabbing it without an oven mitt, is, well, kinda of foolish, but sometimes we humans do foolish things, don't we? So, why did I pick up that searing pan, despite the advice I've always been given and have given to others about hot things causing burns? First, I simply forgot that the pan had just come out of the oven. Second, I just wasn't thinking! Third, I had allowed myself to become preoccupied (with stuffing my face and filling my tummy). None of these excuses though, were good enough to prevent that hot frypan from burning my hand when I thoughtlessly picked it up. Oh, how I wished I had heeded that advice!

Have you ever stopped to think about the reasons we sometimes stray from God's truth and will? I believe we miss the spiritual mark on occasion because: (1) we forget what Jesus did for us on the cross. When we forget how He shed His blood to redeem us from sin, we will do things that we shouldn't; (2) We stop thinking about God's love for us and that leads us to forget about the consequences of making bad spiritual choices; and (3) we get preoccupied with the things of the world. As a result, our souls get "burned" by our sin. If we would follow Lord's advice about staying away from even the very appearance of evil (1 Thess. 5:22), we'll avoid all the pain that goes with "touching" the "hot stove" of wrong.

Lesson 48

Heaven

Sunday, September 26th - Wednesday, October 13th

Memory Verse:

"He will wipe away every tear from their eyes."

Revelation 21:4

For the next three weeks, we will be learning about Heaven. So many amazing things await us in heaven and we are excited to learn all about it!

Anne Jones – Oct 4

Garry Cobb – Oct 7

Walt Johnson – Oct 4

LeGallais, Eddie & Lyn (27th) – October 8

Franks, Ryan & Alyson (5th) – October 8

We are so glad that you are here with us today. Our service today will be to praise and worship our God and to encourage and uplift us to face another week in this world. We will sing and pray. We will meet around the Lord's Table to remember what our Savior did for us so long ago. We will give of the many blessings that God has given us to do the work He has given us. We will have a lesson from His Word that will hopefully be applicable to your daily life.

If you are a visitor, please fill out a visitor's card so we can have a record of your time with us. Ask any of our family members where you can get one of these cards. If there is anything, we can do to help you then please let us know.
