The 12-Year-Old Skier

I recently read an article from CBS reporter, Sharyn Alfonsi, who told the fascinating story of a young man in Montana. His name is Jacob Smith, and he continues to defy all odds.

At the age of 12, Jacob made his way to the top of one of the high peaks in Big Sky, Montana. He was going to ski down the mountain unaccompanied. Now, that would have been a huge accomplishment on its own—but Jacob is also blind. His vision is 20/800, meaning his vision is four times the level of "legal blindness."

So here is a young boy who is essentially completely blind standing at the top of a 1,500 foot chute. He said standing there made you feel like "if you move, you're going to die." But there he was anyway. You might wonder: how on earth is it possible for a 12-year-old (now 15) to ski down some of the country's most challenging slopes, some at 50 degree angles, without being able to see?

The answer: Jacob has a voice in his head. No, not an angel and a demon on both shoulders battling it out. He has the voice of his father. Jacob is allowed to have a radio link to his father, who sits at the bottom of the slope and guides him down the treacherous path.

His father was asked about this and said:

"It's on me to make sure I don't let him down. I have to guide him through narrower chutes or not go off a cliff. Jacob is not reckless. He knows his limitations. I think he has the ability to ski anything on the mountain, but he's not gonna go try to do it by himself. Like, he wants to be with somebody who he trusts."

What a picture of parenting—and since today is Father's Day, it is a great picture of fatherhood. Jacob's father could easily have kept him shut up in his room, sheltering him from the dangers of the world. After all, he is blind! But instead, he chose to help Jacob live, not just be alive. Because he has built a relationship with his son of trust, he knows that when the obstacles come on the slope his son will listen and swerve. There's a lot there to imitate as fathers!

The best part of the interview came from Jacob's reflection on his relationship with his father. He was asked if he trusted him and he said this: "I mean, enough to turn right when he tells me to."

When you're flying down a cliff, that's trusting with your life. That's the relationship Christian fathers must seek to cultivate with their children; that's the trust that Christians should have for our Father in heaven.

6Weeks4Bibles

The Need. Recently we learned from Nkosi Mpofu (Zimbabwe Missions) and Velapi Mlangeni (World Bible School and Partners4Africa) of the great need for Bibles, particularly in the Ndebele language, as well as English WBS Bibles. Over the next six weeks we are challenging our young people to give as much as possible to this effort! There will be a jar on the stage to collect coin (and paper!). Every Sunday we would like for them to come and put something in the jar. Parents, please assist your children with this. Teens, please be ready to contribute as well! Adults, paper money of any amount is welcome at any time! Dorian Flynn will be at Rose Hill on July 31 to give a report on the work in Zimbabwe. We would love to present him a large check that he can take back to Africa with him! Here's the best part of 6Weeks4Bibles! The week before Dorian arrives, the jar will be counted, and whatever amount is raised will be matched from the Rose Hill treasury! Is there anyone else in the congregation who would like to match the amount in the jar? If so, let one of the Elders know! Ndebele is spoken in the areas where most of the work is done by P4A and Nkosi. We do not ship Bibles from here; they are printed in Africa, then purchased and distributed. They cost about $10 (U.S.) each. The challenge of not having God's Word in a local language is not unique to Zimbabwe. There are an estimated 1500 different distinct languages in all of Africa, of which many are without any Bible translation.

Staying in Touch

A Tribute to Dad

I'm sorry dad if I've ever failed to say
Just how much you really mean to me.
I may have taken you too much for granted,
But now I've opened my heart see.

That you've always been there throughout my life,
Though I would sometimes push you away.
You wouldn't show how I caused you hurt.
Though for me I would hear you pray'

You tried to teach me what was important
And to know the difference between right and wrong.
You showed me that by being humble
It was then that I was strong.

Your deeds won't be written in history books
And very few others will have known your name.
But because you live as holy and right,
I know you'll always have God's acclaim!

You've been described as a man of few words,
But quiet I've never "heard" you be.
Your actions and example are always "talking" -
They "say" encouraging things to me!

You work hard each day to provide support,
The needs of your family you do supply.
But you give us more than material things-
You've shown us how on God we can rely.

So, please forgive me for not having said enough
That how as your child I'm so proud and glad.
And that the Father in heaven has made me rich
By blessing my life with a special dad!

Lesson 11

Joshua, Jericho,
Rahab, Achan

Memory Verse:

"Choose you this day whom you will serve, but as for me and my house we will serve the Lord." Joshua 24:15

In this lesson, your child will be learning about the taking of the Promise Land, the River Jordan crossing, the faith of an outsider and the disobedient warrior. They will learn about the Israelites journey under the leadership of Joshua and that help can sometimes come from anyone at any time. Please discuss these stories with your child so they can continue to learn and study God's word throughout the week.
